Location: Sligo

Salary: €238'211 - €286'151 p/a

We are seeking a dedicated and forward-thinking Consultant Physician in Infectious Diseases and Sexual Health to join a progressive multidisciplinary team delivering high-quality specialist care.

Key Responsibilities:

Provide expert assessment, diagnosis, and management of patients with infectious diseases in both inpatient and outpatient settings.

Deliver specialist Sexual Health and Genitourinary Medicine (GUM) services, including STI diagnosis, treatment, prevention, and follow-up.

Lead the management of complex infections, antimicrobial stewardship initiatives, and infection prevention strategies.

Collaborate closely with microbiology, public health, pharmacy, and other medical specialities.

Participate in the General Internal Medicine on-call rota, where applicable.

Support HIV care services and the management of blood-borne viral infections.

Contribute to service development, quality improvement projects, and clinical governance activities.

Provide teaching, training, and supervision to junior doctors, medical students, and multidisciplinary team members.

Requirements:

Specialist registration (or eligibility for specialist registration) in Infectious Diseases.

Experience in Sexual Health/Genitourinary Medicine and the management of complex infectious diseases.

Strong interest in antimicrobial stewardship, infection prevention, and multidisciplinary working.

Excellent communication, leadership, and teamwork skills.

Commitment to education, research, and continuous service improvement.

What we offer:

The current Consultant salary scale ranges from €238,221 to €286,151 for a 37-hour week, with any additional work paid on top of that. There is also €12,000 in CPD funding, €8,000 in innovation funding, generous annual leave, and a public pension scheme.
