Family Medicine Specialist, Norway

On behalf of a municipality on the Helgeland coast in Northern Norway, we are seeking a family medicine specialist to join a well-established primary care centre. This permanent position offers the opportunity to work in a supportive professional environment while enjoying life in a welcoming coastal community surrounded by mountains and the sea.

About the position:
You will become part of an organised and collaborative healthcare environment with experienced GPs, resident doctors, and other healthcare professionals working closely together. The medical centre is co-located with other municipal health services, providing efficient collaboration and short decision-making processes.

Your responsibilities will include:
General practice consultations and patient list responsibility
Diagnosis, treatment, and follow-up of patients of all ages
Preventive healthcare and chronic disease management
Participation in out-of-hours emergency services on a rotational basis
Collaboration with municipal healthcare services and specialist care providers

We offer:
Permanent full-time position
Competitive and attractive salary conditions
Excellent working conditions and a supportive professional environment
Opportunities for professional development and further training
Assistance with relocation and practical arrangements when moving to Norway
A varied and rewarding workday in beautiful natural surroundings
A stable workplace with a strong focus on quality and collaboration
Free Norwegian language training

We understand that relocating to a new country is a major step. Therefore, we provide:
Free Norwegian language training
Support throughout the authorisation process
Guidance and assistance with relocation
Help with integration into both the workplace and local community

About the municipality:
