Family Medicine Specialist, Sweden

We collaborate with modern primary care centres across Sweden, from smaller community clinics to larger multidisciplinary healthcare centres. Our role is to help you find a position that matches your professional interests, preferred location and work-life balance.

Primary care physicians in Sweden play a central role in the healthcare system and work with a broad variety of cases, long-term patient relationships and close collaboration with other healthcare professionals.

Professional Development:
General practitioners in Sweden work in a clinically focused environment with opportunities to develop areas of special interest. Many clinics also offer opportunities to participate in teaching or supervision of junior doctors, particularly in larger healthcare centres.

Relocation and Support:
Relocating to another country is a major step. We support you throughout the entire process from the first conversation to being fully established in Sweden.

Your personal advisor will assist with:
medical licensing relocation planning practical matters related to moving and settling in
Our services are completely free of charge for physicians.

Support for your family:
Many physicians relocate with their families. We therefore provide guidance regarding schools, childcare, housing and everyday life in Sweden.

We can also offer support for partners seeking employment, including opportunities within healthcare where relevant.

Language training:
To work independently as a physician in Sweden, Swedish language proficiency at C1 level is required.

We provide intensive online Swedish language training with experienced instructors. The training is flexible and adapted to your schedule.

Language courses can also be offered to accompanying partners and older children to support their integration.

Living in Sweden:
Sweden offers a high quality of life, safe communities and excellent public services.

Physicians often appreciate the balance between professional responsibility and personal life, with structured working hours and good opportunities for outdoor activities, sports and family life.

Families benefit from high-quality childcare, subsidized preschool and free school meals for children.

Requirements. We are looking for physicians who:
Hold an EU-recognised specialist certification in General Practice / Family Medicine
Have good communication skills in English
Are motivated to learn Swedish and relocate to Sweden
