

Specialist Family Medicine, Norway

On behalf of a doctor's office in the eastern part of Norway, we're looking for a family physician for a permanent position. The doctor's office is only 40 minutes by car from Oslo, so you can easily commute if you want to live in the city.

Professional requirements:

Medical license and specialist approval from an EU country.
Specialist doctor within family medicine, preferably with minimum two years of experience.
Experience from paediatric medicine and infant check-ups.
Experience from gynaecological examinations within an office setting.
Being in command of smaller surgical interventions.
Being able to handle a broad variety of patients with a big variety of diagnosis unsupervised.

Personality:

You have a genuine interest and thrive to work and live in Norway.
You have a humble approach to new experiences at the same time as you are ready to take a big responsibility to fulfil projects, such as completing the language course in order to apply for license and specialist approval from the Ministry of Health and Welfare.
You are able to work in a team where all members, no matter what professional background, are equally important.
You are able to handle situations of stress well since emigration is a big step – but a rewarding one!

We offer:

Good salary conditions.
Favourable pension and welfare schemes.
Free language course, done via Teams or Skype.
Help to obtain Norwegian authorisation.
Assistance with relocation for you (and your family).
Professional support during the whole recruitment process.
